Storm Topples Maple

Friday night's wind and rain storm caused this large maple to topple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bartell, Evergreen Ave. & Cawthorne St., Appomattox. Daughter Jeannie, 3 years old (above) points to a rather large woodpecker's nest which had been built in the hollow of the tree. The Bartells say that town workers were prompt to offer assistance to clear Cawthorne St. which was blocked by the tree. There's another small daughter at the Bartells.

Also, he says that particular attention is going to be paid to the development of the Pamplin Elementary School together with the other schools in the system: Intermediate School, Appomattox Primary School and the Appomattox County High School.

"Appomattox has been extremely fortunate," says Mr. Gray, "in that progress in school matters thus far has not been seriously interrupted by integration and that discipline and teacher-pupil relationships are far better here, than can be found in schools in other locations. It is the board's intention, he says, to work to improve discipline throughout the school system so that each pupil can receive proper instruction.
